It is hoped that community education will become an ongoing project but that depends upon participation of the residents. Watch for details in March for the first set of classes. If you have questions, or would like to offer a course in the future, please contact the Woodward Public Library.

COMMUNITY EDUCATION CLASSES AT THE LIBRARY

The Woodward Public Library and Library Foundation are pleased to announce upcoming community education classes. The first slate of classes will begin in April and May. The typical class will last between one and six sessions. This effort is intended to be self-funding so fees will be charged for each class depending upon the teacher and material costs.

Watch for a complete catalog in March on the library website as well as paper copies around the community. The current planned classes for this spring include Computer/technology courses taught by Minburn Communication staff,

Library Requests Historical Materials

One of the goals in the strategic plan at the Woodward Public Library is to expand the Historical and Genealogical collections. Currently there is a genealogy book section and a cabinet of historical documents and photographs stored in the meeting room of the Library. If you have materials of Woodward historical value please contact the library. We are also interested in collecting family histories that have local connections.

*Remember the library needs backpacks for their Stem/Steam kits.
